Please see below a message from our new Headteacher Mr Alex Lingard who will lead us in September at the start of the new academic year.

Dear parents and carers

It has been a great pleasure to meet some of the students on my visits over the last few weeks. So much so, I wanted to write to you to let you know how much I am looking forward to meeting and welcoming all of the students as they return after the summer break.

I am hugely grateful to the Deputy Headteacher, Paula Martin who has done a fantastic job as the Interim Headteacher – she, along with the rest of the senior team, have been so accommodating giving me their time and support to help me with my transition to Helston. I am grateful to all the teachers, support staff and the governors for allowing me to lead the exciting next steps of the College, and to join a fabulous team.

Thank you to all of you who responded to the parent survey – we had a fabulous response and your feedback is helping shape our plans for next year. As a result of your comments (along with those from staff and students), we have already taken some decisive action ready for September in relation to site security, our Behaviour Policy and supporting students' mental health and well-being. I will share details of these (and more) as we approach the new term.

I wish you all a safe and restful summer holiday, and look forward to personally welcoming you all to the College very soon.

Yours faithfully

Alex Lingard
